Bruce Armstrong Dies In Auto Crash

WORLD AFFAIRS

By Prof. George Berreman

It is one of the strange ironies of history that the land made forever holy by the print of sacred feet, should nineteen hundred years later be stained with the blood of Jews and Arabs. If the Prince of Peace should walk along the highways of his earthly travel, he would find them lined with the broken bodies of men he came to save.

Even before the decision of the United Nations to partition Palestine, Arabs served notice that such an act would result in bloody war. That war is on today, though unofficial.

If you will consult a map, you will see that Palestine is virtually surrounded by Arab Nations of Mohammedan faith. They are Syria, Egypt, Irak, Iran, Turkey and Saudi Arabia.

Disturbing factors in the situation are the seeming indifference of British troops, and British and American governments to the situation. Just as in the case of Loyalist Spain, we have placed an embargo on shipment of arms to the Jews. Clearly the Arab Nations will have no difficulty in buying arms. When Britain moves out and the all out Arab attack comes, the Jews may be largely unarmed against the murderous attack.

Why are nations like Britain and America so indifferent? Can it be Arab oil? Will Russia seize the excuse to send her troops there? Will United Nations send police force? A commission from United Nations is to go to Palestine to study the situation. Arabs advise them to stay away for fear of getting killed. What a hopeless muddle of conflicting selfishness and ambition.

Some one has said, "War is not in airplanes, nor submarines, nor in atomic bombs. War is in the hearts of men." How can war be removed from the hearts of men? I know of but one spiritual Surgeon capable of that operation. On earth men called Him, "Jesus of Nazareth." When will men learn that there is no other way to peace than that He offered?

Quakerettes Continue Wins

Continuing their winning splurge, the P.C. Quakerettes downed the girls from Willamette, 30-15 here in Hester gym, Friday the 16th. The Quakerettes went into the lead early in the game and maintained it throughout. Louise Fivecoat led the victors with 12 points, closely followed by Gertrude Haworth with 11. Willamette suffered two minor injuries which somewhat slowed down their defensive, and aided the P.C. team.

The evening of the 23rd, the gals for Pacific journeyed to Reed college in Portland, only to lose a hard fought battle to the girls of Reed. The final score stood at 27-23. The Quakerette met the strongest and tallest offensive they've found in any team, coupled with an accurate offensive. Barratt was high for the Quakerettes.

The Quakerettes met O.C.E. last Friday evening, but no details were available at the time of writing.

Choir Itinerary

The concert program for Pacific college's choir has been announced by Roy Clark, director. An extensive series of concerts has been scheduled in addition to the annual spring tour. Also, several appearances at Youth for Christ rallies will be scheduled and announced later.

The Spring tour, which will be from March 26 to April 5, will consist of concerts at various churches along the coast from Northern California into Washington and back to the college.

The program for the year is as follows:

January 4—Mt. Home E.U.B., morning; Dayton E.U.B., evening.

January 25—Camas Friends, afternoon; Vancouver Friends, evening.

February 15—Dallas C.M.A., evening; Unionvale E.U.B., afternoon.

February 22—Newberg Free Methodist, evening.

February 29—Corvallis E.U.B., afternoon; Salem First E.U.B., evening.

March 7—Albany First Methodist, evening; Eugene E.U.B., afternoon.

March 26-April 5—Spring Tour (15 concerts—coast cities in Oregon and Washington).

April 18—Lents Friends, morning; Piedmont Friends, evening.

May 2—Ladd Add. E.U.B., afternoon; Portland First E.U.B., evening.

May 16—South Salem Friends, afternoon; Highland Friends, evening.

May 30—Newberg Friends, evening.

Quakers Pounced By OCE Wolves

This time it was a plain case of being outclassed and outpassed, but definitely. Yep, you guessed it, O.C.E.—77, P.C.—40, at the O.C.E. gym at Monmouth last Thursday as they led at halftime 32 to 13.

It was their big center, McElravy, who set up numerous plays with his superb passing and faking. He made but three points but his finesse at faking his opponent out of position and his all around ability to see his mates in the open, proved the difference.

There was no doubt as to who had the sharper eye last Thursday night as O.C.E. hit a high percentage of their long set shots while the Quakers couldn't find the hoop to any degree. Sharpshooting Harrel Smith, who canned 23 points in the first game this season hit for 14 and high scorer for the evening, Heibert, of the Wolves, bucketed 16. Norv Hadley for the Quakers found the hoop for 13 and Bob Armstrong for 8.

Lineups:

Quakers	O.C.E.
Hadley (13) F.....	(14) Smith
Armstrong (6) F.....	(16) Heibert
Thompson C.....	(3) McElravy
Faber (2) G.....	(13) McKee
Antrim G.....	(11) Hamer

Substitutions: Pacific—G. Smith (2), Stephens (2), Ankeny (6), Baines (7); O.C.E.—Buckley (8), Proctor (1), Thompson (3), Parvell (8).

His to Publish Senior's Article

Donna Heacock, senior, who graduated this semester, has received word from the editors of HIS magazine that an article written by her will be published in the March edition.

"I Lost My Faith," a testimonial which was published in the Crescent last year, is the name of the piece. HIS, is the official publication of the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship, and is edited by Doctor Wilbur Smith of Chicago.

Donna, who is a history major, left Friday for the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor to work for her Master's degree in history. She has attended Pacific all four years, having been editor of the Crescent last year, rating a berth in Who's Who, and taking part in a number of school activities.

From Hoover

"Inmates" of Hoover hall (men's dormitory) have installed a Coca-Cola vending machine in the hall. It has proved to be a popular addition to campus life, both men and women being able to find interest therein and thereabout. It is planned to employ proceeds from the same of bottled Cokes in decorating and making livable the now somewhat barren parlor of Hoover hall, in which the furniture consists of a piano, a piano stool, a priceless antique chair (Hoover's?) with "removable" back, another chair of more comfortable (if rather severe) proportions, a rug (no comment), two fluorescent light fixtures, and an aged Christmas tree.

FMF Closes Drive

A meeting held in the parlor of Edwards hall, the 19th, decided that the clothing drive of the Foreign Missions Fellowship be discontinued the 23rd.

At the close of the business, the study group discovered that the Israelites were the chosen people of God to spread the gospel of His love to the nations of the world. And as a result of their failure to do so, the work was given to the Christian church.

Bruce Armstrong, Pacific college freshman, was killed in an auto accident near Condon, Oregon Thursday night. Also involved in the accident was Lloyd Lyda, owner of the car in which they were traveling, who is in the hospital at The Dalles, Oregon. Lloyd suffered a fractured leg, cuts about the face, and possibly other injuries.

Office Announces

New Term Courses

A variety of new courses has been added to the schedule for the coming year, Miss Mary Sutton, registrar, announced recently. Outstanding on the list is a lower-division course in astronomy to be offered by Professor Amos Stanbrough. While not listed as a laboratory course, Mr. Stanbrough plans to give a course of study designed to provide the student with a thorough background in the subject.

Two other courses to be given next semester which have not been offered for some time are creative writing and contemporary drama. Creative writing is an upper-division course in composition while contemporary drama, also an upper-division course, will consist of a study of the best in current plays. Professor Russel Lewis will teach both of these subjects.

Another attraction, of special interest to psychology majors, is the psychology of Religious Experience, an upper-division course under Dr. Wallace Emerson. Social Theory, offered by Professor Perry Macy is drawing those who wish advanced work in Sociology.

American government is being offered for the first time in recent semesters by Professor George Berreman. This course is a comprehensive study of the theory and practice of the United States government, both federal, state and local. It is counted as a lower division course.

In the field of music, Professor Roy Clark offers an upper-division course in ear training. This course consists of an analysis of music structure and the rhythmic pattern as well as other studies.

Miss Mary Sutton is offering advanced botany for the first time in several years.

The popular one hour course in Peace and War will be repeated again this semester. Mr. Berreman will lead the study in place of Dr. Gervas Cary who had the class first semester.

Both boys are residents of Nampa, Idaho, and were enroute to their home when the accident occurred.

Bruce was the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Armstrong of 252 High St., Nampa. He was born July 16, 1929. He graduated from Nampa high school last June and entered Pacific college in September.

Lloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyda, also of Nampa. No details are known concerning the cause of the accident, but President Gervas Carey has sent Robert Morrill to The Dalles to find out more about it. Mr. Morrill left Portland at 2 p. m. Friday.

SCU Reports Gifts

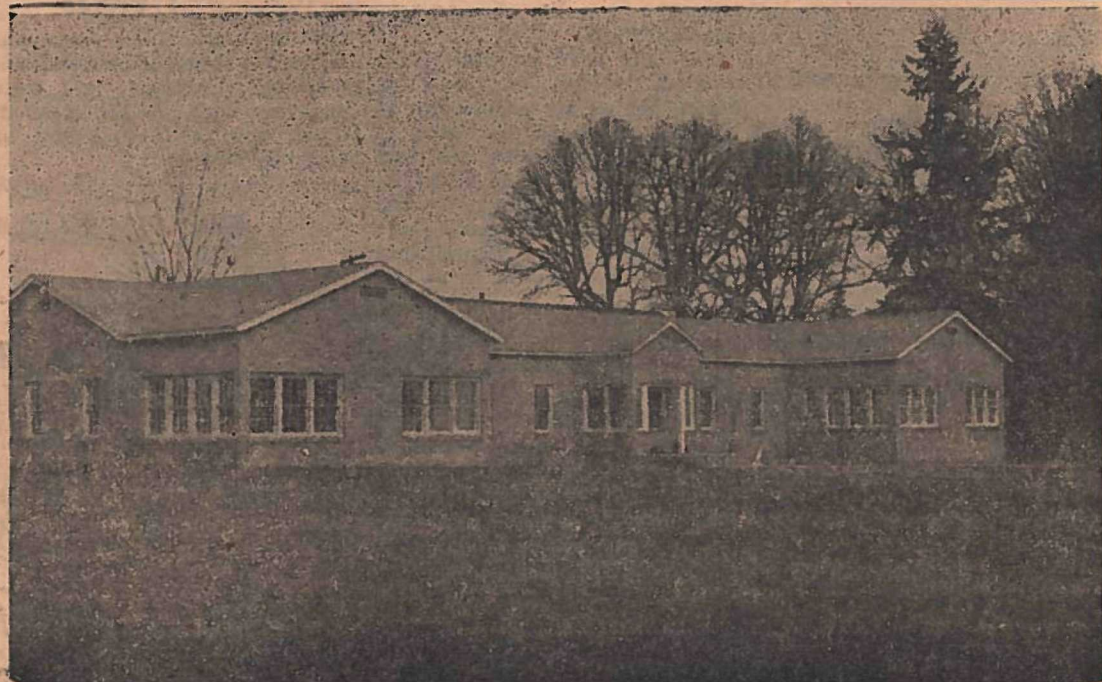

A report on the relief fund drive sponsored by the Student Christian Union, November 10-25, 1947 shows that a total of $175.85 was contributed by faculty and students at the chapel service on the final day of the drive. The report is given at this late date in order that disposition of the fund might be made known at the same time the amount is published.

$165.85 has been sent to the headquarters of the National Association of Evangelicals for gospel-accompanied relief supplies for Europe, and the $10 remainder will be sent to CARE headquarters as outstanding pledges are received. Members of the S.C.U. cabinet wish to thank the student body and faculty for the whole-hearted interest shown the drive, and also to urge them to continue to support agencies working toward relief of distressed and suffering people.

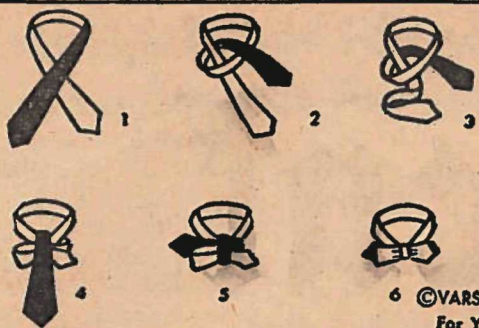

GOLD Q ENTERTAINS

The Swedish Villa in Portland was the interesting setting for the annual Gold Q banquet, Saturday night. After a delightful meal and fun, the girls and their guests attended the Youth for Christ rally and then went to Esther Mae Moor's home for more fun.

The Gold Q banquet is an annual affair sponsored by the girls' letterman's club. The club boasts 10 members this year.

Monday Massacre

BY H. ALVIN ANKENY

Do you have a funny feeling in your stomach or headache and heartaches? Then what you need is to spend the final week of a term at Pacific college. Sublime peace reigns supreme at this northwest resort. No hurrying, no scurrying, only relaxation at its best. Has anyone ever said we couldn't write as good a satire as Sinclair Lewis?

We were relaxing in chapel the other day thinking (a rare feat indeed) about some of the reasons why the college doesn't have an orchestra and we decided it wasn't because they don't have the instruments. For right there in our very own chapel is the making of a beautiful orchestra. As you know, under every chapel seat is a hat rack. That day as we sat there an eerie sound not unlike that of a guitar string being twanged, emitted forth from beneath one of those seats, and immediately the reconditioned motors in our brains laboriously began to turn over. The antiquated cogs commenced to grind out thoughts while through a sifting process we arrived at the following suggestion. The music department could tune the first four rows of the center section to four-part harmony and the eight seats across the front is enough for an octave. Of course, the range wouldn't be so great but it would be interesting to hear how it would sound. It may prove to be valuable for an ear training class.

All of you have undoubtedly noticed the rapidity of engagement announcements around here. Boy, it takes less time for a person to become engaged than it does to train a Salvation Army musician.

Old man weather has finally returned from his lengthy vacation. He must really love us in Oregon. Look how he "drools" over us all the time. We would just as soon have him peddle his "drippings" in some other state.

The character with the Pontiac is still working on it. He has taken his shingle down now, probably because he figures his present job will last him the rest of the winter. We hope nothing ever goes wrong with our car and forced to let him work on it, the old Chevy just couldn't take it.

You're probably asking how can a guy write such a lousy column, well, it isn't easy.

'Sad Sacks' Don't Rate

Things are getting pretty sad when a girl has to miss her third period class because her nerves were unstrung by a "clacker" sitting behind her in her second period class. A clacker!! Yeah! One of those rude, inconsiderate, agonizing, nerve-wracking characters who sits in class constantly working the lower part of her (or his) kisser clacking gum at the rate of approximately 120 times per minute. How do they do it without their teeth heating up? They should be "berled in eryl."

Then there are the "yakers"—all the while the prof. is knockin' himself out talking you to sleep, some yak-er is behind you keeping you awake the same way. The yak-er is a person that just sits and constantly exhales alphabetically to anyone or no one at all, and never inhales. Sounds for the world like an idling engine with a loose rod and a leaky manifold gasket!

And we can't neglect the "sniffer"—the sad apple who sits behind you and every five seconds on the second he (or she) "slurfs". It's understood you can only take this for about 112 "slurfs" then you rip out a Kleenex, turn around, firmly plant the Kleenex on his (or her) snolligostinator and scream, "Now blow!" You'll breathe heavily and laugh fiendishly for a few minutes after but it's to be expected. It's an accepted condition. See what you can do about it.

P.S.—C.L. is here!

—SERMONETTE—

By Jack Otto

"For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required." (Luke 12:48). Too often are we satisfied in living a "good" life, but the Scripture bears home to our hearts the responsibility of the stewardship given each one of us.

Whether we acknowledge it or not, much has been given us and in turn much will be required. May God help us to know how to be faithful stewards.

FIRST we have been given the "Gospel Story". Many of us experience its true meaning. We can testify of its reality! It has been given to us but what are we doing with it? Jesus said, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Is your life and mine telling for Christ?

Not only have we been given salvation through the blood of Christ, but we are commanded to witness and preach the Gospel to all people. Remember the last time you were asked to lead C.E., or you felt you should testify but let the opportunity pass?—and did you think of the responsibility that faces each one of us as stewards of God?

Day after day we are given opportunity to enrich our lives so that we can better serve Christ. In these days it is our privilege to attend Pacific college. Soon they will pass. Are we making them count for God? I feel they have been given us by the hand of God and we are responsible for an answer as to how they were spent.

It is only as we are faithful to the call of God that we can expect His blessings. He has promised to each of us a "crown of life" if we are found faithful, and to the unfaithful eternal separation. Which shall it be for you—for me?

HOUSE CLEANING

I fling out fear and discontent
And give my doubts the broom,
Then bring in cheer and merriment
To fill each empty room.

The windows darkened by distress,
I'll brighten up again
And wash with suds of cheerfulness
To let the sunshine in.

I'll toss out selfishness and hate,
Then buy a box of love
So big it barely clears the gate
And ceiling high above.

Oh, yes, this year house-cleaning time
Has me on reverent knees,
Scrubbing my heart of moral grime
To win great victories.

—Nicholas Lloyd Ingraham

MAIL BOX

Dear Editor:

Last night when I was in my room, a scratching, rustling noise disturbed my peace of mind. I was startled at first until I heard "squeak, squeak", then I heard the pattering of little feet. It was those rats again!

Yes, we have rats in our beloved Canyon hall. Not just two or three but hundreds of them. They run around in the walls and make weird noises all night long. And they monopolize the laundry room every evening and morning by coming out of their hiding places every time we girls go in to wash our hands and faces. When they make their appearance we all go screaming back to our rooms, shut the door and remain in our cells until we think it safe to venture out once more.

That is why we girls of the Canyon hall basement go to classes with our hands and faces dirty and our clothes unpressed; that is the only alternative; we would rather do that than be chewed or scared to death by those obnoxious rats.

You don't need to think we girls aren't concerned about it; we are! The other night we set a huge rat trap. It looked to me like it would easily catch a panther—but these rats are bigger than that! The rat made his way into the trap, sprung it, and wiggled out again, with apparently no physical damage except a nose bleed.

It looks like either the rats will have to move from the basement or we girls. We hope some one will read this who will feel a concern about our condition and help us in our time of trouble.

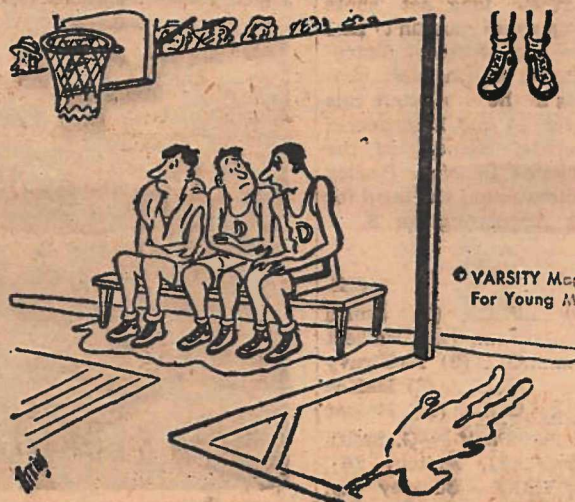

Sincerely,

A Concerned Inmate

(Editor's note: We hate to admit that P.C. is a haven for rats, Concerned, but we feel sufficiently sorry for your plight that we publish this plea at a risk of losing our esteem and self-respect. Won't some Pied Piper come to the rescue?)

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Jones announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Vera, to Mr. Kenneth Kester, son of L. S. Kester of Wendling, Oregon.

STOP AND THINK!

Have you ever thought of standing before God and being judged?
Have you wondered what God would say to you?
If you met God face to face at the end of the day, would you be
Have you taken every opportunity to help someone?
afraid to give an account of yourself?
Have you done ALL you could for God today, or did you waste
Can you picture yourself standing before God?
precious time and opportunities?

STOP AND THINK!

You are accountable for every minute! How are you spending them?
Are you living each moment to please God and help others?
Are you living as if your life depended on it?
Are you REALLY LIVING?
Don't cheat God! Don't cheat others! Don't cheat yourself!!

Observation Tower

I've had quite a time last week trying to study for exams and still keep by observation eye on the latest about the campus—quite a problem, so please don't mind if words like Platyhelminthes (that's from Biology) or Methuselah sneak into this column . . . what is the significance of the class ring Jeanne Woodward wears in a chain? Does it have any connection with the blushes which accompany the mention of Louie Byrd? . . . one of our favorite couples of last week took the eventful step a week ago—Johnny Sommens and Alice Kippenhan . . . this Leap Year party should bring out some interesting couples . . . the reaction to the letter to the editor in the last issue has been fascinating . . . mmm, weren't those wonderful spring days swell? . . . I've had to pinch myself to make sure I was still in Oregon and not just dreaming . . . the tennis courts even got a work-out—imagine, in January . . . we're going to miss Jack Otto's giggle this semester . . . also Everett Clarkson's and Betty Orkney's battles in Canyon hall parlor . . . also, all you people who are unable to attend P.C. this semester . . . tickled to hear that Vera Jones and Kenny Kester have announced their wedding date . . . The fellows would probably be interested in all the sessions the gals had trying to decide who they should ask to the leap year party . . . now the gals can sympathize with you men—quite a problem, isn't it? . . . our nomination for the married couple of this issue is Terrell and Kathleen Repp and their darling little girl, Marlene . . . Well, kiddies, I guess it's time I put the close on this line . . . Bye now.

Wed in Newberg

Amid a lovely setting of flowers and candlelight, Alice Lorrain Kippenhan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kippenhan, became the bride of John W. Vander Sommen of Bell, California at the Newberg Friends church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Rosalie, as maid of honor. Lorna and Verle Kippenhan, also sisters of the bride, was bridesmaids. The groom was attended by Gordon St. George, best man. Jack Martin and Jack Cadd were ushers. A small cousin of the bride was flower girl. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Tonquin Nazarene church. The candles were lighted by the Misses Barbara Evans and Verna Marx. The wedding music was provided by Miss Eleanor Burton, soprano, and Roy P. Clark, organist.

The bride was beautiful in a white moire taffeta gown with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. Her full train-length face veil was trimmed in two-inch lace, and was held in place by a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried three tiny orchids on a white Bible. Her attendants wore formals of blue and pink, and carried nosegays of early spring flowers.

The reception was held in the social parlors of the church. Miss Gertrude Haworth cut the five-layer book, and the Misses Barbara Evans and Verna Marx opened gifts.

The young couple will make their home at 5010 1/2 Elizabeth St., Bell, California.

Quakers Slate Rugged Schedule This Week; Four Games in Five Nights

Four games in five nights, starting tomorrow night with Reed college is the casaba schedule for the Quakers at home this week. Shooting for their first win in 16 starts Tuesday night the Quakers will attempt to avenge a previous defeat at the hands of the Reed Grifins on the latters' floor. The Quakers are in better shape this week than they were last week with the final exams out of the way.

Thursday night it's N.N.C. of Nampa, Idaho, over for a one night stand. N.N.C. has won a game from Eastern Oregon College of Education and that team has beaten O.C.E. Of course, as a rule scores like this are not a basis of drawing drastic conclusions, for every team has there "off" night and their "on" night. Perhaps this one is the Quakers' "on" night.

For a rugged finale for the week the Quakers meet up with the Seattle Pacific cagers this coming Friday and Saturday night. Seattle Pacific college, a Free Methodist school, struts a fairly high scoring quintet with lots of fine passers. Two weeks ago the Seattle team took a double header from the Quakers, both by lop-sided scores. It will be interesting to see how the two teams size up on the much larger gym of the Quakers. The Seattle school's gym is considerably smaller and the small gyms cramp the styles of several of the Quakers.

All games will be played on the Quaker Hester Memorial gym, games starting at 8:00. Preliminary games will begin at 7:00. Officials for the four games will probably be Roy Clark and Mahlon Macy.

Number 15 Dropped to PU

If providence is trying to teach the Quaker cagers how to be good losers then she has certainly succeeded. Number 15 rolled around last Tuesday night about 7 p. m. and at 8:10 it was number 15 in the lost column. The Quakers weren't outclassed this time but couldn't seem to hit the hoop in the dimly lighted layout at Forest Grove. The lopsided score testifies to the truth of the above statement.

Several of the hoopsters have been down with bad colds and generally overworked during the rugged final exam week, but still their showing was far below par. Every man on each team that entered the game scored at least one point. No one man on either team scored more than nine points so one can see that it was not class that beat the Quakers.

Wayne Antrim, veteran guard for the Quakers was high point man for the Quakers with 7. For the Baby Badgers it was Tidrick with nine. Halftime score was 23-11 for the Badgers.

Gold P Slates Tourney

Ten teams have accepted invitations to participate in the Grade School Tournament being held at the Hester Memorial gym, February 26, 27 and 28. Gene Smith, chairman for the Gold P, sponsoring the tourney, said that around 20 to 25 teams are expected to participate out of the 60 invited.

There will be four trophies presented to the first three teams to place and one trophy for the consolation winner. Last year's winner was the grade school at McMinnville who now holds the three year revolving trophy. This trophy must be won three times in succession to acquire permanent possession. Last year was the first time McMinnville has won it.

Quaker JV's Lose Close Game to Salem JV

Coach Clayton Barnes' Pacific college J.V. basketballers came within a whisker of racking up another win, but when the final gong was sounded the Quakers were trailing by a three-point margin, 56-53, in a free-scoring tussle with Salem College's varsity at Salem Saturday night.

Played on one of the smallest gyms the J.V.'s have appeared upon so far this year, the Quakers were unable to connect with numerous tries and racked up most of their points on easy layins by Forwards Ray Warner and Dave Fendall, who had 20 and 16 points respectively. Wayne Houser of the winners tallied 16. Halftime count was 27-24 for the J.V.'s after trailing badly most of the first half.

Lineups:
Warner (20) F..... (6) Gwynn
Olson (5) F..... (7) Heinrich
Hester (6) C..... (16) Houser
Ankeny (2) G..... (12) Veer
Mardock (4) G..... (7) Wenger
Substitutes: Pacific—Fendall (16), Comfort; Salem—M. Hampton (2), Cooley, B. Hampton (6), Sheets. Officials: Morris and Seep.

Vanport Slaughters Quaker Crew

With 11 of the 13 men who entered the game scoring at least two points, Vanport college cagers completed a sweep of their two-game stand with Pacific college rivals last Monday night as they recorded an 84 to 59 decision.

The visitors were never in trouble as they got off to a fast start and held a 36 to 24 margin at halftime. Norv Hadley of the Quakers was high scorer, however, recording 18 points. Warberg of the winners followed with 15.

Quakers Downed Twice by Seattle Pacific Crew, 72-48, 79-46 Scores

Pacific college's hapless Quakers continued to tip the balance scales toward its already loss-heavy side last Friday and Saturday nights as they took their 13th and 14th straight loss on the chin from a classy Seattle Pacific quintet in the Washington metropolis.

SPC's Free Methodists were never in trouble either night as they whipped up a sharpshooting combination and cracked their way to easy 72-48, and 79-46 triumphs over the hard-fighting but out-classed locals.

Playing an unusually hard type of game both evenings was Spud Ankeny who canned 11 points the first night and doubled the count with 22 the following evening. High-scoring ace Norval Hadley for the Quakers was stymied by the small floor and was unable to hit his usual scoring pace, though he did make 12 Friday night.

All-around stars for the S.P.C. outfit were a couple of forwards by the name of Howell and Cochran. The smooth-passing Seattle Pacific five will come to Newberg's Hester gym February 6 and 7 for a return two-night stand with the Quakers.

Lineups: Friday night.

Pacific Jayvees Set Idaho Trip

Set to leave early Friday morning for a basketball trip to Boise valley in Idaho are the Pacific college Quaker Jayvees under mentorship of Clayton Barnes, student at the Quaker institution.

The Jayvees will play the Greenleaf Academy team at Greenleaf, Ida., Friday and Saturday nights. Greenleaf is a small Friends community and contributes many students to the local school. The academy this year is said to have one of the best small school hoop teams in that section of the state.

Probably squad members will be Forwards Ray Warner, Kenny Miller, Harold Magree, Doug Olson, Dave Fendall; Centers Allen Hester, Marion Comfort, and Guards Harlow Ankeny, Bud Mardock, Lloyd Lyda and Bruce Armstrong.
